

The current regulations on this issue are in the public interest. Any liberation of the ownership restrictions will NOT improve the diversity of opinions in broadcast media or be in the public interest - it will only serve the interests of a few big media companies.